

INFORMATION FOR FAMILIES:

Compensatory services are used to help students make up for

This includes situations where a child does not get special education services because he or she was denied a timely initial evaluation, but later found eligible.

Parents and guardians are members of the ARD committee. They decide if compensatory services are needed and what those services will be.

