

TELPAS Writing
Scoring Guide
Elementary School
Sentence Rewrite
Spring 2023

General Information

This guide provides exemplar student responses for the Texas English Language Proficiency Assessment System (TELPAS) online writing assessment for elementary grades. Items included in this guide are from the spring 2023 TELPAS reading and writing tests. Each question is identified as it appears on the corresponding released test (question is referred to as "item" in the rubric).

The responses you see in this guide are student responses to a writing item administered online in the spring of 2023. A variety of responses are included to show acceptable and non-acceptable responses. The response images are as the students typed them.

The annotation that accompanies each response is written to illustrate how the language of the rubric is applied to each response to determine a score. A response earns a point, based on the rubric guidelines that were met in that particular response. The proficiency level of the student is determined by the accumulated score across a series of multiple choice and written responses. The annotation establishes the link between a response and proficiency level but reflects one piece

TELPAS Sentence Rewrite Writing Rubric

As part of the TELPAS Writing assessment, rubrics were developed to determine the points that should be ascribed to a response based on the performance on a particular item. The rubric demonstrates the number of score points that students can achieve based on their performance on each writing test item. For Sentence Rewrite items, the rubric below was developed, and scoring will follow these guidelines:

- y Punctuation and capitalization will not count.
- y The correction of all errors must be spelled correctly.
- y If the student introduces new errors, these will not count against them.

Score	Description
1	The response is one or more complete sentences and corrects all the errors in the given text.
0	The response is not a complete sentence or does not correct all the errors in the given text.
